

magnetic field (B) scan

in mass spectrometry

The usual method of producing a momentum (mass) spectrum, by varying the strength of the magnetic field.

Source:

PAC, 1991, 63, 1541 (Recommendations for nomenclature and symbolism for mass spectroscopy (including an appendix of terms used in vacuum technology). (Recommendations 1991)) on page 1550